Joe Biden nailed his V.P. choice with woman of color

By Jackie Hampton Publisher

People across the nation have been wondering and speculating who Presidential Candidate Joe Biden would choose as his running mate and finally Tuesday he announced that he has chosen Senator Kamala Harris as his vice presidential running mate, putting for the first time, a woman of color on the presi-

"Joe Biden nailed this decision," stated former President Barack Obama, regarding his choice of Harris as his vice presidential running mate for 2020. As reported on various news stations Tuesday, Obama sent out a statement saying, "By choosing Senator Kamala Harris as America's next vice president, he (Biden) has underscored his own judgement and character...And now Joe has an ideal partner to help him tackle the very real challenges America faces right now and in the years ahead."

Harris is the first black woman and the first person of Indian descent to be nominated for national office by a major party.

in a special runoff election for U.S. Senator in 2018, and even though he did not win at that time, it was the closest senate election in Mississippi since 1982. Harris supported Espy in that race. He stated, "Kamala is a personal friend and I appreciate that she came to Mississippi multiple times to help me in the 2018 senate race."

While an undergraduate of Howard University, Harris became a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. This sisterhood organization is very proud of Biden's choice.

California Sen. Kamala Harris is Joe Biden's choice for vice Following months of speculation and debate over whether Biden should pick a black woman as his running mate, Harris was named Tuesday as Biden's choice. Biden reportedly had called

Rep. Karen Bass (D-Calif.), former Ambassador Susan Rice and three other candidates to inform them on Tuesday morning that they were not his pick.

Harris had routinely been seen as the top pick, but her clashes with Biden during the Democratic debates appeared to give Biden pause.

However, Biden had been photographed in recent weeks with talking points which noted not to hold a grudge against Har-

Sworn in as senator in 2017, Harris became the second African American woman and the first South Asian-American senator in history.

She has said that her life as a prosecutor and fighting justice was inspired by her mother, an Indian American immigrant, activist and breast cancer researcher.

Growing up in Oakland, Harris had "a stroller-eve view of the Civil Rights movement," according to her official biography.

Through the example of courageous leaders like Thurgood Marshall, Constance Baker Motley and Charles Hamilton Houston, Harris said she learned the kind of character it requires to stand up to the powerful and resolved to spend her life advocating for those who could not defend themselves.

After earning an undergraduate degree from Howard University and a law degree from the University of California, Hastings, she began her career in the Alameda County District Attorney's Office.

In 2003, Harris became the District Attorney of the City and County of San Francisco.

Among her achievements as district attorney, Harris started a program that gives first-time drug offenders the chance to earn a high school diploma and find employment.

Having completed two terms as the District Attorney of San Francisco, Harris was elected as the first African American and first woman to serve as California's attorney general.

In this role, she "worked tirelessly to hold corporations accountable and protect the state's most vulnerable people," according to her biography.

Over the course of her nearly two terms in office, Harris won a $25-billion settlement for California homeowners hit by the foreclosure crisis, defended California's landmark climate change law, protected the Affordable Care Act, helped win marriage equality for all Californians, and prosecuted transnational gangs that trafficked in guns, drugs, and human beings.

As U.S. senator, she has introduced and co-sponsored legislation to raise wages for working people, reform our broken criminal justice system, make healthcare a right for all Americans, address the epidemic of substance abuse, support veterans and military families, and expand access to childcare for working parents.

Earlier Tuesday, President Donald Trump suggested that "some men are insulted" that Biden had long ago narrowed his search to women. However, Trump's statements were seen as a last-minute bid to rattle the Democrats.

Women's groups and the civil rights community in recent days have blasted media members and individuals on social platforms for racist and sexist attacks against Harris and others who were considered in the vicepresidential sweepstakes.

Biden picks Kamala Harris as running mate, first black woman

California Sen. Kamala Harris is Joe Biden's choice for vice president

By Kathleen Ronayne and Will Weissert Writer

Joe Biden named California Sen. Kamala Harris as his running mate on Tuesday, making history by selecting the first black woman to compete on a major party's presidential ticket and acknowledging the vital role black voters will play in his bid to defeat President Donald Trump.

In choosing Harris, Biden is embracing a former rival from the Democratic primary who is familiar with the unique rigor of a national campaign. Born to a Jamaican father and Indian mother, the 55-year-old first-term senator is one of the party's most prominent figures. She quickly became a top contender for the No. 2 spot after her own White House campaign ended.

In a tweet, Biden called Harris a "fearless fighter for the little guy, and one of the country's finest public servants."

The Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party holds a BLM rally in Pickens, demands Confederate statue be removed

By Delilah Ray

Contributing Writer

On Saturday, August 8, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party hosted a rally in Pickens, Mississippi in conjunction with the Black Lives Matter movement that has been occurring around the global community.

Cardell Wright, the president of the MFDP, said he was compelled to take the rally to Pickens to raise awareness about the cause to show solidarity among the African-American community. "The many senseless killings of black men and women in this nation has motivated me to take a stand against such hateful acts of violence along with the rest of the organization. The killing of Breonna Taylor and the mere fact that justice still has not been served is one of the main reasons to keep the movement going."

Moreover, although the rally falls under the umbrella of the Black Lives Matter movement, Wright and the members of the MFDP decided that it was also vitally important to tailor the rally more to the issues that plague the Holmes County community. "Too often people get elected because of promises they made to the people who voted for them, but in turn, do nothing to advance the community," Wright

MFDP is taking up is Parks and Recreation.

"Holmes County has too many parks that are not being groomed and maintained. The elected officials are doing nothing to help bring them up to the level where they are enjoyable for kids.

"There is much talk about building other things, but it is not feasible to build something else for young people if the parks we already have are not cultivated and enhanced," Wright exclaimed.

Holmes County has recreational parks with gates and locks on them to keep kids out. This is problematic for Holmes County and the MFDP is taking up the cause to fight against the neglection. Crime will continue to persist when there is nothing else for the young people to do.

Furthermore, another reason for the rally in Pickens is to continue to fight against the Confederate statue on the Courthouse lawn in Lexington. Until this day, the Holmes County Board of Supervisors have yet to begin the process of removing the statue. They have slacked on this issue which sends a message to the MFDP and the Holmes County community that they are not concerned with achieving progress for the black community.

No longer will the MFDP sit idly by and watch our elected officials refuse to do what is necessary for the future posterity of this county.

Wright said, "The MFDP will continue to raise awareness about all the issues we are facing such as parks and recreation, the Confederate statue, education, government, etc. We have rallied and will continue to rally against these grave injustices that are occurring in our community. Until FDP member. we are thrust into a better day in Holmes County, the MFDP will not keep silent."

Speakers for the Pickens Rally included: Cardell Wright – president of Cianna Hooker – president of

Lexington FDP Chad Smart- Barnes – Lexingkeynote speaker Mayor William Primer – may-

Kila Anderson – Lexington

Edelia Dr. Jay Carthan served as keynote speaker for the rally. She is from Holmes County and is also acting executive director of the Freedom Democratic Party in Jackson, MS.

Dr. Jay encouraged rally goers by saying, "We must be the conscious of our community and find what John Lewis called good trouble, necessary trouble."

The group was escorted by the police as they marched through the city after the rally. The FDP has plans to do another rally soon.

Biden

"Together, with you, we're going to beat Trump," he said.. She joins Biden in the 2020 race at a moment of unprecedented national crisis. The coronavirus pandemic has claimed the lives of more than 160,000 people in the U.S., far more than the toll experienced in other countries. Business closures and disruptions resulting from the pandemic have caused severe economic problems. Unrest, meanwhile, has emerged across the country as Americans protest racism and police brutality.

After Tuesday's announcement, Trump quickly tweeted a campaign ad that dismisses Harris as "phony" and says she and Biden "jointly embrace the radical left."

Trump's uneven handling of the crises has given Biden an opening, and he enters the fall campaign in strong position against the president. In adding Harris to the ticket, he can point to her relatively centrist record on issues such as health care and her background in law enforcement in the nation's largest state.

Harris' record as California attorney general and district attorney in San Francisco was heavily scrutinized during the Democratic primary and turned away some liberals and younger black voters who saw her as out of step on issues of racism in the legal system and police brutality. She tried to strike a balance on these issues, declaring herself a "progressive prosecutor" who backs law enforcement reforms.

Biden, who spent eight years as President Barack Obama's vice president, has spent months weighing who would fill that same role in his White House. He pledged in March to select a woman as his vice president, easing frustration among Democrats that the presidential race would center on two white men in their 70s.

Biden's search was expansive, including Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren, a leading progressive, Florida Rep. Val Demings, whose impeachment prosecution of Trump won plaudits, California Rep. Karen Bass, who leads the Congressional Black Caucus, former Obama national security adviser Susan Rice and Atlanta Mayor Keisha Lance Bottoms, whose passionate response to unrest in her city garnered national attention.

Rice congratulated Harris on her selection, calling her a "tenacious and trailblazing leader." Rice said she would support Biden and Harris "with all my energy and commitment."

Bass tweeted, "Kamala-Harris is a great choice for vice president. Her tenacious pursuit of justice and relentless advocacy for the people is what is needed right now."

A woman has never served as president or vice president in the United States. Two women have been nominated as running mates on major party tickets: Democrat Geraldine Ferraro in 1984 and Republican Sarah Palin in 2008. Their parties lost in the general election.

As her national profile grew, Harris built a reputation around her work as a prosecutor. After being elected to the Senate in 2016, she quickly gained attention for her assertive questioning of Trump administration officials during congressional hearings. In one memorable moment last year, Harris tripped up Attorney General William Barr when she repeatedly pressed him on whether Trump or other White House officials pressured him took this call to action to the highest echelon of this country. The needs are great in America and as only a black woman could, Kamala answered the call."

Patton, retired director of Multicultural Services at Ursinus College in Collegeville, PA, said as AKAs, "We got your back."

Denise Wright, a graduate of Jackson State University is a member of Beta Delta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated, said," I am excited and elated that presidential candidate Joe Biden has chosen Senator Kamala Harris as his running mate. I was very impressed with how she performed during the presidential debates and I knew she would be a formidable candidate after hearing her speak at a sorority event in New Orleans last year. I plan to join the ranks of our sorority sisters as we work during this historic election to get out the vote and elect the nation's first woman of color as vice president."

Maggie Harper, a graduate of Alcorn State University, said, "As a member of Beta Delta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated, I am extremely elated and proud that my sorority sister has been chosen to repre-sent the democratic ticket with VP Biden. Senator Kamala Harris not only represents Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, but all women throughout the United States. However, let us all remind ourselves that this is only the beginning. There's much work to be done to be victorious on No-vember 3. So, let's get busy registering people to vote, mobilizing and finally voting. We must give our much needed time and money and remember the work is not done until we cast our vote on No-vember 3."

In an open letter by nearly 700 black women leaders, the attacks were roundly denounced.

"Black women are many things. We are business executives, political strategists and elected officials, philanthropists and activists," the letter, circulated throughout the media and posted to various social media accounts, read.

"We are health and wellness practitioners. We are entertainers and faith leaders. We are wives, mothers, daughters, educators and students. We set and shift culture. We build power, and we are powerful."

Counting among the many black women who signed the open letter are Johnnetta B. Cole, Maya Cummings, Hazel Dukes, Suzanne DePasse, Valeisha Butterfield Jones, Cora Masters Barry, Melanie Campbell and Karen Boykin-Towns.

"We are the highest propensity voters in this nation. We are a coalition of black women leaders, who, in this inflection point of the black liberation movement, where people around the world are galvanized to action, know that the time for black women in the United States is now," the women penned in the letter.

Earlier, 100 prominent black men including Sean "Diddy" Combs, Charlamagne Tha God, NBA Star Chris Paul, Bakari Sellers and rapper Doug E. Fresh, signed a letter of solidarity calling for Biden to select a black woman.

"As someone who has said throughout the campaign that VP Joe Biden needs to choose a black woman VP, the urgency for that pick has gone from something that should happen to something that has to happen. It disgusts us that black women are not just being vetted in this VP process but unfairly criticized and scrutinized," the men wrote in the missive.

"Was Joe Biden ever labeled 'too ambitious' because he ran for president three times? Should President Obama not have made him the VP because he had to worry about his 'loyalty' when he clearly had ambitions to be president himself? Why does Senator Kamala Harris have to show remorse for questioning Biden's previous stance on integrated busing during a democratic primary debate?"

Meet Candidate Divinity

By Edelia Dr. Jay Carthan Staff Writer

It is our hope that Mississippians make informed decisions when selecting the best candidates to represent their city, county, as well as the state of Mississippi, as they get out to vote.

Greg Divinity is a candidate for the Mississippi House of Representatives, District 66. He is a husband, father, grandfather, business owner and retired veteran.

The following questions were asked during our virtual zoom interview.

Why are you running for Mississippi House of Representatives, District 66?

GD: Well, the reason I am seeking the House seat is for one it is vacant and needs to be filled. Secondly, I believe that I am going to be a strong voice for the individuals in the district. One thing about me is I am a committed servant. I am committed to serving the people in that district. I believe I have the education as well as the experience to work with the people in the district and to work with the people in the legislature to bring a change and growth in the district.

What are your top priorities felected?

GD: My top priority is public education enhancement. Also law enforcement as well as criminal justice reform. I'm looking at how we can decrease the blight and improve the roads and streets within south Jackson and that district area. Also, I'm looking at rural business development and community and business partnerships. One of the other things that we want to make sure is on my platform is decent and affordable healthcare whether it is medicaid for all or some feasible alternative. Those are some of the things on my platform. One of the major things that I want to push is that we have adequate internet service in rural areas and in the city where children have to be in virtual classrooms. Some of them are not able to get to their classrooms because they don't have adequate internet service.

What will you do to make the legislature more transparent and accountable?

GD: In the legislature, I would work across the aisle with each legislator so that I can make sure we get the necessary improvements in our district. One thing we can do is keep one another accountable. I keep them accountable and they keep me accountable and that's doing the things necessary to help improve Mississippi as a whole and not just one section or one group; making sure we are doing things that are beneficial to all Mississippians.

What are your thoughts on the Black Lives Matter Move-

GD: One thing about it is I really do believe all lives matter and as African Americans we should continue to push for Black Lives Matter because there is some disproportion in the way law enforcement handles an African American vs the way they handle other Americans. I believe that we should be standing, we should be protesting, and we should be pushing. I believe the Black Lives Matter Movement is important to our community as African Americans. But I also believe that Black Lives Matter is beneficial to the United States as well as Mississippi and my district as a whole. That is an important push that we need to be making at this present time.

What are your top priorities for District 66?

GD: One of my top priorities is education. I think we have to do some things to enhance the public education within the district. Also, there is a lot of blight and a lot of cracking roads and infrastructure. I think those are some areas that we have to look at to get legislation to improve very quickly. I understand education is a key to it all. I think we can work together to diligently improve the community if we can get children educated and their parents educated on the importance of taking ownership of their community. One of the main things is working to get the business as well as the community to take real ownership of the community.

What are your views on public education?

GD: Well, I am a product of public education so I believe in public education. I believe in the educational system. I believe we have to do things to enhance education.

One of the things I have already done is established preschools. I have established after-school programs, and I have established tutoring programs as well as nutrition programs for children in the district. When a child starts school early as in preschool and has the opportunity to get into an after-school program, that child is further along in school than children that do not have access to those things. We need to take money from the public school system and expand preschool as well as after-school. Also, we need to make sure that school lunches are fully funded because I believe that a child that is hungry cannot learn. I want to see more funding put in place for those types of things.

What can Mississippi do to solve it's teacher storage in the state?

GD: One of my proposals for teachers is that bonuses be put in place and that teachers' pay should be raised and not just given a few crumbs. Teachers' pay should be raised where's its in line with the southeast region and I pray and hope we get to a point where we are above the minimum pay for the southeastern region. I think that will begin to get more teachers to come to Mississippi and look at it as a great place to live and teach. We have to do some things to let our teachers know that they are

What are your ideas for improving access to healthcare as well as coverage?

GD: One of my platforms is looking at ways that everyone has decent and affordable healthcare. We could push and put legislation in place that we could expand medicaid. If we can expand medicaid for all, I think that will be a catch-all to solve the problem with individuals having decent and affordable healthcare.

How do we reform the Criminal Justice System?

GD: We have to look at it like you said, we have to reform. It's the Mississippi Department of Correction and we're not doing anything in the system really to correct behavior. What we have to do is put some counseling in place and we have to make sure that when individuals come out that we have some transitioning in place. When we know that these citizens are getting ready to return to society, we should have a year long transition for them inside so that when they move into transition outside they can continue to understand and learn how to live outside of the institution. We do not have anything in place for them to make the transition from inside to outside and that's why we're at a high rate of recidivism. We have to look at legislation to move the prison system from the private prison because it's a business. The business is in place to make money and they are making money on individuals being incarcerated.

Out of all the other candidates running, what makes you the best candidate for District 66?

GD: Well, I will go back to what I said earlier. One of the main things about me is being a committed servant, being a person that's come in to serve the people, looking at the people and looking at their needs and making sure we keep the focus on the people and not the politics and not the party. That is the type of person I am. I am going to be looking at what's the need of the people and how we can get that done and looking to work across the aisle and looking to work with anyone at any time in order to get the resources necessary. I am a committed servant and I am a fighter. I am going to fight for those being taken advantage of. I am looking to fight for those that are in a disproportionate rate of being in the healthcare arena as well as in the way law enforcement is dealing with those individuals of African-American descent.

I am a fighter by nature and also I am a fighter by training. I fought in the military and I just have the nature of being a committed servant and being a fighter. I have proven that I am a proven fighter willing to fight for my country and now I am willing to fight for my community and that's why I believe that I am the best candidate at this present time for this position.

I am not just starting to do things because I am running for office, I have been doing things in my community for years to improve the district. ## Vice President Biden did the right thing

By Dr. John E. Warren Publisher, The San Diego Voice & Viewpoint Newspaper

Vice President Biden did the right thing both for himself and for the country in selecting Senator Kamala Harris as his running mate. Although she was not this paper's first choice, the choice was not one based on a question of qualifications. She has always been qualified. For some it was a matter of timing. But then this was the same issue with President Obama when he decided to run for the presidency as a young U.S. Senator from Illinois. It looks like history's greatness has an opportunity to repeat itself.

Harris represents the fulfillment of the dream deferred by Congresswoman Shirley Chischolm 50 years ago when she boldly declared her candidacy for no less than the presidency itself. She never made it to the official selection of the Democratic Party for either

The selection of Harris as running mate will now test the sincerity of those of us who know that America cannot afford one day longer of Donald Trump in the White House than the November 3, 2020 election allows.

We must not assume that Biden and Harris will automatically defeat Trump. We must work to make that defeat a reality with every fiber of our being. We must vote.

We must make sure that those who have been protesting the pandemics of racism, bigotry and police brutality while suffering death at the hands of COVID-19 must register and must vote in spite of all the efforts of Donald Trump, the Russians and Republican efforts to suppress the elections.

We must vote early to overcome the efforts to delay or destroy the U.S. Postal Service. We must encourage the vote and the face mask and understand that for Donald Trump, the more of us that die by November, the fewer the votes against him.

When elected, we hope President Joe Biden will exercise another decision of wisdom and appoint Susan Rice as Secretary of State. No one is better qualified nor better prepared. Let's restore the greatness of democracy. Let's work to make this election a victory as if the Voting Rights Act had just been passed.

The attack on America

By Dr. John E. Warren Publisher, The San Diego Voice & Viewpoint Newspaper

The National Archives in Washington D.C. house three important documents pertaining to America: The Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States and the Bill of Rights. On the North side of the building is the following inscription: "What is Past is Prologue." In reflecting on these words and looking at the destruction and override of basic principles of governance under Donald Trump, we should also remember what the historian Arnold Toynbee wrote in his exploration of the rise and fall of 28 different civilizations. "Great civilizations are not murdered, but destroyed from within."

America is under attack by Donald Trump, Mitchell McConnell, leader of the U.S. Senate, and those Republican members who prop him up, as well as William Barr, Attorney General of the United States, who has turned his office into a rubber stamp of Donald Trump's totalitarianism. These men are trampling the U.S. Constitution, the Bill of Rights and ignoring the preamble of the Declaration of Independence.

Their weapons are racism, bigotry and financial greed for the few - like putting over $2 billion in the current Republican stimulus proposal for a new FBI building across the street from Trump's Washington, D.C. hotel while cutting proposed unemployment benefits for millions of Americans to $200 a week instead of the current $600.

McConnell has made a mockery of the doctrine of Separation of Powers in the Constitution at every juncture, from denying former President Obama's U.S. Supreme Court nominee a hearing to undermining the impeachment process by refusing to call witnesses.

McConnell refuses to investigate or give legal direction to the president and has trampled "States Rights" under the 10th Amendment to the Constitution which says: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." This does not allow sending federal agents into this nation's cities at the whim of the Federal government as is presently being done.

President Trump violated his Oath to "Protect and Defend" against all enemies of the United States, Foreign and Domestic by not challenging Russsian President Putin on questioning whether he offered bounties for the murder of American troops in Afganistan. The Republican Party is equally as guilty of not rising to the aid of the American people in a national crisis such as the present pandemic.

The lack of leadership, racist and selfish actions of these people over the needs of the American people in a crisis that has already claimed more lives than most wars of the last century while, still claiming hundreds of lives daily, has set in motion the kind of collapse that brought down Rome in 177 A.D. It was a collapse from within more than conquest from without. This is why Toynebee said, "Great civilizations are not murdered. They commit suicide."

But there is still hope. Our Constitutional safeguards have not been completely destroyed yet. We are less than 98 days from an election that can still set aright the "Ship of State." If we rise up and vote in November, we will once again be able to say: "Thou too sail on O Ship of State, O Union Strong and Great. Humanity with all its fears and all its hope of future years is hanging breathlessly in thy fate."

Let's use our knowledge of what has happened in the past to stop the pandemics of Covid-19, Donald Trump and the racism and inequality we have finally decided to do something about. We can defeat this attack.

Don't Throw your own pity party and then attend spiritually speaking...

By James A. Washington Jr. Co-Publisher of the Dallas Weekly News, NNPA Newswire Contributor

While I was trying to remember where I heard or read about the concept of letting your hate for someone else control your life, I realized that maybe someone needed to read about it. So, here it is. Now I am not talking about just not liking someone. I am talking about not being able to control your emotions when it comes to a particular

I mean having complete and utter disdain for another human being, so much so, that even when you don't want to think about them, you can't help yourself. That person occupies too much of your mental space and saps your waking time and energy.

Look here. If you can't stand someone, can't get along with someone, are still hurt after someone left you long ago, you really need to let it go. I guess it exemplifies a very practical approach to "Let go and let God." The premise is simple enough.

Without forgiveness in your heart, you are forever bound and chained to that which you despise most, are fearful of and have been seriously hurt by.

Have you ever been around someone who continues to relive a past relationship, a broken heart. wrongful termination, missed opportunity or a personal slight, over and over and over again? That's all they talk about.

When they see something or hear something that reminds them of that someone or that thing, you know what's coming. And they expect you to join them in the pity party they've thrown for themselves. In fact, it's the same one they threw yesterday and the day before and you know it's the one they'll throw tomorrow. Maybe you've attended a pity party or two, even thrown on for yourself.

Without forgiveness in your heart and mind and your spirit, you're essentially doomed to be shackled to what scarred you in the first place. My bible says the truth shall set you free. And the truth is, you better let that madness go, so you can live a life of freedom.

You can never be the person God wants you to be if you continue to let these people and events and circumstances have that kind of power over you. That's right, power. Whether you want to acknowledge it or not, you are letting your thoughts rule your behavior, your attitude and your outlook. That's too much power to give to anyone or anything who is so negative to who you are in the eyes of God.

It's a mind game and it's your mind. Paul says, "Be transformed by the renewal of your mind." Romans 12:2. Let God reshape your thinking into what you can be instead of what they you say are not.

The truth is God can't or won't even deal with you until you comply with the rule of forgiveness. He says, "If you come to the altar with your gift and there remember that vour brother has something against you, leave your gift and go be reconciled with your brother; then come and offer your gift." Matthew 5:23. You got to let it go. You have to in order to claim your freedom, your peace. Until you do, you can't receive all that God has for you.

My point is that the process begins from within. It takes intestinal fortitude to forgive one's enemies in the face of their attacks, old and new. But you must. I know you can.

Just remember this. When you do let go and let God, "It is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." He knows it's in you because He put it there. May God bless and keep you always.

New York's Attorney General alleges widespread corruption at the NRA

By Stacy M. Brown

NNPA Newswire Senior Correspondent

New York Attorney General Letitia James has launched what many may perceive as a proverbial David v. Goliath battle, filing a suit that seeks to dissolve the powerful National Rifle Association (NRA).

In a news conference held August 6, James announced the charges levied against the orga-The filing alleges illegal conduct and corruption, stating: "... their diversion of millions of dollars away from the charitable mission of the organization for personal use by senior leadership, awarding contracts to the financial gain of close associates and family, and appearing to dole out lucrative no-show contracts to former employees to buy their silence and continued loyalty."

The State of New York alleges that the organization, its vice-president Wayne LaPierre, former CFO Wilson Phillips, former Chief of Staff and Executive Director of General Operations

Joshua Powell and Corporate Secretary and General Counsel John Frazer failed to manage the NRA's funds and failed to follow numerous state and federal laws, contributing to the loss of more than $64 million in just three years for the NRA.

"The NRA's influence has been so powerful that the organization went unchecked for decades while top executives funneled millions into their own pockets," said James. "The NRA is fraught with fraud and abuse, which is why, today, we seek to dissolve the NRA, because no organization is above the law."

James cites numerous examples where the four defendants listed in the complaint "failed to fulfill their fiduciary duty to the

She alleges that the accused used millions of dollars from NRA reserves funds for personal use, including trips for them and their families to the Bahamas, private jets, expensive meals and other private travel." In addition to shuttering the NRA's doors, James said she's seeking to recoup the millions in lost assets and stop the four defendants from serving on the board of any not-for-profit charitable organization in the state of New York again.

According to the Attorney General's filing, the four individuals "instituted a culture of selfdealing, mismanagement and negligent oversight at the NRA that was illegal, oppressive and fraudulent."

"They overrode and evaded internal controls to allow themselves, their families, favored board members, employees, and vendors to benefit through reimbursed expenses, related party transactions, excess compensation, side deals and waste of charitable assets without regard to the NRA's best interests," James noted.

When board members challenged LaPierre and others over their financial governance and leadership of the NRA, it's alleged that LaPierre retaliated and turned the board against those who attempted to challenge the illegal behavior.

According to the lawsuit, LaPierre, Phillips, Powell, Frazer and other executives and board members at the NRA allegedly abused their power and illegally diverted or facilitated the diversion of tens of millions of dollars from the NRA.

"These funds were in addition to millions of dollars that the four individual defendants were already receiving in grossly excessive salaries and bonuses that were not in line with the best practices and prudent standards for evaluating and determining compensation."

Leadership at the NRA also failed to assure standard fiscal controls, failed to respond adequately to whistleblowers, affirmatively took steps to conceal the nature and scope of whistleblower concerns from external auditors, and failed to review potential conflicts of interest for employees, according to the complaint.

According to James, the NRA violated various laws, including the laws governing the NRA's charitable status, false reporting on annual filings with the IRS, and the OAG's Charities Bureau. She further alleged improper expense documentation, improper wage reporting, improper income tax withholding, failure to make required excise tax reporting and payments, payments above reasonable compensation to disqualified persons, and waste of NRA assets in direct violation of New York's Estates, Powers & Trusts Laws; New York's Notfor-Profit Corporation Law; the New York Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act; and New York's Executive Law.

"The illegal nature of the four individual defendants' action also violated multiple rules of the NRA's bylaws, the NRA's employee handbook, and the NRA's policy manual," James

The NRA's failure to comply with multiple fiduciary responsibilities and state and federal laws resulted in the NRA's seeing substantial losses on its balance sheet, the complaint stated.

The organization went from enjoying a surplus of more than $27.8 million in 2015 to a net deficit of more than $36.2 million in 2018 – contributing to a total loss of more than $64 million in just three years.

James said that her office began looking into the NRA in February 2019 and now seeks to dissolve the organization.

She's asking a federal court judge to order LaPierre, Phillips, Powell and Frazer to make full restitution of funds they unlawfully profited from along with the salaries earned as employees along with additional penalties.

The State of New York is also seeking to recover illegal and unauthorized payments to the four individuals, remove LaPierre and Frazer from the NRA's leadership (the NRA no longer employs Phillips and Powell), and ensure that none of the four defendants can ever again serve on the board of a charity in New York State.

Transitions are a christian's best friend

By Shewanda Riley Columnist

A few years what started as a brief conversation in a church bookstore between me and two church members turned into an encouraging discussion and prayer about how to handle transition. We each shared how the transitions that we were going through stirred up so many expected and unexpected emotions like relief, confidence, joy, fear, guilt and anxiety.

At the end of our prayer, we agreed that even though our transitions were different, we had to learn how to do the same thing: Trust God in the transition. Because it's human nature to fight change (and the one who allows change to happen), sometimes we end up fighting God and his plan for our lives. By the end of that week, I'd had similar conversations with at least three other friends about dealing with similar transitions. The one thing that connected each of these conversations was the fact that the true nature of the person came out during the transition. The optimist stayed hopeful during the transition and the negative person became more negative during the transition.

It's been said that money or the lack of money often brings out the "true" you. Transitions do the same thing. For example, those of us who are fearful before a transition are just as fearful (if not more fearful) afterwards. Some of us get stuck halfway through the transition and want to go back to where we started. We may even try to mask that fear by trying to control every aspect of the change.

One thing I've had to learn as I've dealt with various transitions in my life is to not ask God "why?" - "Why me Lord?" Instead, ask God "how?" - How do I continue to praise you through this? How do I continue to trust you? How do I stay encouraged? How much more strength will I need?

Romans 8:28 is a familiar passage of scripture that reminds us that "in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose." It's 10 verses later in verses 38-39 that we find out why: "For I am convinced that neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither the present nor the future, nor any powers, neither height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord." No matter what the transition, we will always be loved by God.

It's just that simple.

Sometimes we think that the hardest part of a transition is just accepting the change itself. I also think the hard part might be trusting God as we continue through the transition. Some of us start off looking forward to change, but when it gets too hard, we change our minds. Like Peter who wavered when walking on the water in Matthew 14:22-31, we lose faith and focus on the circumstances that surround us. God allows transitions because he wants to build our character and increase our faith.

Stay true to God

By Pastor Simeon R. Green III Special to The Mississippi Link

We are living in one of the greatest days of conflict. Why? Because the devil is throwing in everything he has to try to defeat the saints of God, but he cannot defeat us. We can stand and fight the good fight. We may be few, but we are going to stay true to God.

We read in Colossians 2:14, "Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us." How much of the Ten Commandment laws were against us, all of them. Jesus nailed them all to the cross. He said, "You cannot do it, so I will give two other commandments in their stead." Jesus said in Matthew 22:37-40 these words: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

He nailed all Ten Commandments to the cross. Man must receive that reconciliation in order to have it. Second Corinthians 5:18-20 states: "And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation; To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation. Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God." We are here to represent Christ.

We ought to ask ourselves these questions: How am I representing Christ? Is the world seeing Christ as God wants them to see Him? Am I representing Christ as a true and living God to this lost and dying world? Do I desire to be true to souls regardless of the cost? When Christ was true to souls, it put Him on the cross and when we are true to souls, it will cost us, but it will be worth it all when we see Jesus.

Tougaloo college hosts virtual panel discussing COVID-19

By Morgan Bridgeman Student Intern Writer

On August 10, 2020 at 6 p.m. Tougaloo College hosted an informative COVID-19 virtual panel. The Jackson Heart Study Undergraduate Training and Education Center (JHS UTEC) is the organization at Tougaloo who presented this event. It was also presented by Dr. Wendy White, the private investigator for JHS UTEC, and the Natural Sciences Divisions where Dr. Jinghe Mao serves as dean. This panel included a host of doctors who have been monitoring the COVID-19 pandemic very closely.

The panel started with hosts Levell Williams and Cedonia Thomas welcoming all the participants to the event and then introducing the panel. The speakers for this event were Dr. Paul Byers, Mississippi Department of Health (MSDH) epidemiologist, Dr. Thomas Dobbs, State Health Officer with the MSDH, Dr. Marshala Lee, director of the Harrington Value Institute Community Partnership Fund at ChristianaCare, and Dr. Ashish Jha, director of the Global Health Harvard Institute. After the introduction of speakers, Tougaloo College President Dr. Carmen J. Walters formally welcomed everyone to the event.

After the welcome, Thomas asked Dr. Jha about the state of the country as far as COV-ID-19. Dr. Jha explained that as of now there are about 20 million global cases and a quarter of all those cases are from the U.S. He cited that the United States has all of these cases mainly because the virus is not taken seriously. He also cited that cases are high because of the inequalities in the healthcare system among minorities and poor populations. "As this pandemic progresses, we need to look at this thing with an equality lens as well as a pandemic lens," Dr. Jha stated.

Dr. Thomas Dobbs began to speak about the current CO-VID-19 climate in Mississippi. He noted that Mississippi did get left behind on the COVID train simply because they at first focused on travelers instead of focusing on people in the state. He said that now they are focusing on the African-American, Latinx and Native American communities who have been affected the most. "The fight that Mississippi is in right now is trying to keep hospital rates stabilized and fighting misinformation," Dr. Dobbs said.

The first question a participant asked the panel was about pre-existing conditions in the African-American community that contributes to COVID-19 affecting the community more. Dr. Marshala Lee took the reins on this question and explained that pre-existing conditions such as hypertension, diabetes and blood pressure contribute to how COVID affects the community. She also noted that the community is affected also because of healthcare providers being least funded.

Dr. Lee also answered questions about how HBCUs could help be a public health advocate. She suggested that HBCUs could partner with organizations that the black community trusts such as barbershops and churches to help the community be more willing to get their health check.

The panel then shifted the discussion to schools and how students could protect themselves. The panel suggested that students should follow the guidance from health officials, be mindful of individuals, wear masks and avoid groups.

Dr. Dobbs went on to note that pediatricians have helped a lot with the guidance of reopening of schools.

The panel also touched on the fact that the flu is approaching as COVID-19 is still around. Dr. Byers acknowledged that when the flu comes it can get complicated but at least the flu vaccine exists and hopefully in the near future a COVID-19 vaccine will exist.

The event concluded with the panel giving their final thoughts on this pandemic.

Dr. Dobbs urged participants with the final thought of believing what science tells them and not what Facebook or any other social media site tells them.

One of the final thoughts that Dr. Lee gave participants is to "stay the course."

The panel all concluded that we can get through this together as long as we stay together.

TIPS TO BE FIT

How to talk to your children about COVID-19

By Vince Faust The Mississippi Link Newswire

When a serious medical issue affects a family, children deserve to know. Silence is not the best solution. We should discuss anything that is going to have an affect on the health of the family. We should openly and candidly in an age appropriate manner talk to our children. This teaches children that parents are trustworthy and honest about family protection sue for every family. It can affect anyone at anytime and anywhere. Children are home, online and listening to the news constantly. They know when there is a serious problem. Even if you don't talk to them about it they will figure out on their own that there is a very serious issue going on. They will worry. Not discussing the issue will increase their fears and anxiety.

Covid-19 is a big health is-

When children are not told about what's going on and are left alone to develop their own understanding, they will get a lot of miss information, have unfounded heighten fears and no plan. You may not have all the answers but if you talk to your child they will know they are not alone.

Talking about serious medical issues can be difficult. You should be prepared for your talk. Know the latest information. Be positive but realistic. Don't just rely on the Internet for all your information. Your friends can help but it should be expert-backed information. Think about what you are going to say. Every child and situ-

- Share Share your emotions with your child. If you are sad, worried or angry let your child know your feelings. Reassure your child that your family will get through this challenge together and you will keep them informed about everything.
- Be consistent Maintain a consistent schedule and normal discipline with your child. Children draw a sense of security and normalcy with consistency.

- Toddlers can't fully understand what it means to have a serious illness. They are able to sense when something is wrong. This can cause a fear of being separated from their parents. With toddlers you should maintain a consistent environment that will take into account you might have to make some changes.
- · Preschoolers and kindergarteners can understand the seriousness of an illness but they often engage in magical thinking and associative logic. They may think they can wave a wand and make everything go away. With this group you should use simple terms to ex-

- Middle age children who are between 7 and 12 have the capacity to understand what's going on. Even at this age they can become confused with unfamiliar words and complicated terms. They may not let you know that they don't understand. Here again you can ask them to explain what you just discussed. With this group you also want to keep a consistent schedule. You can even include them in doctor visits.
- Adolescents can understand disease both biologically and psychologically. You can give them the facts. They can be reasoned with. If they want more information encourage them to do research but get them to talk about what they find. The Internet has a lot of misinformation. They can go to the doctor with you. Encourage questions. Don't let them blame themselves for the illness. Adult children need a family talk too. Having a sick family member can be a big emotional blow. Wait until you have all the facts about your illness before you have that talk. You should know your diagnosis, treatment and prognosis. This will minimize fears and gilt of not being there.

There is no easy way to tell others you are sick. With a little planning the job will get easier.

Hundreds attend memorial service for Civil Rights leader James Charles Evers

By Edelia Dr. Jay Carthan Contributing Writer

Hundreds of people attended the memorial service for the civil rights leader, James Charles Evers Saturday, Aug. 8, at Thalia Mara Hall in downtown Jackson. He was 97 years old.

"I am a civil rights kid of the 1960's. It was Charles Evers that helped me get past the pain and the grief of Medgar's death," Reena Evers-Everett, the daughter of Medgar Evers, recalled about her uncle. Charles was the brother of slain civil rights activist Medgar Evers.

The service was streamed live on the Medgar and Myrlie Evers Institute Facebook Page. People wore masks and practiced social distancing because of the CO-VID-19 pandemic.

Evers made history when he was elected mayor of Fayette in 1969, becoming the first African American to head a multiracial town in Mississippi since Reconstruction. Evers served sixteen years as mayor of Fayette and was named Man of the Year by the NAACP. Evers was quoted as saying, "Hands that picked cotton can now pick the mayor."

"He was a good man and did everything he could to help everyone," Wanda Evers recalled about her dad. Wanda organized a block party in honor of her dad on Friday. Dozens of citizens attended the event including Jackson Mayor Chokwe Lumumba and Jackson City Councilmen Aaron Banks and Charles Tillman. Because of the pandemic, most people were wearing masks but few were practicing social

"We all appreciate his history and his legacy for what he has done to run for public office and his historic participation in the civil rights movement. We all have our own personal stories. We love him for many reasons," Lumumba recalled about the civil rights leader.

Well-wishers celebrated Evers' life at the block party by sharing stories of him while free food and great music filled the block. The party was held on Pecan Park Circle where Evers' radio station, WMPR, is located.

After retiring from politics, Charles became manager and owner of WMPR 90.1 FM where he hosted a weekly radio show, "Let's Talk." He discussed politics, race and current events. Evers was inducted into the National Rhythm and Blues Hall of Fame in 2017 for his contributions to the music industry.

During the block party, the street sign renaming Pecan Park

Circle was unveiled.

"My daddy would always say that this was his block. And when we put the sign up there, I said Charles Evers, you got your block. He got his block, and we're happy about that, and we just praise the City of Jackson for stepping up to do their part. If it wasn't for him, a lot of us wouldn't be where we are today," Wanda said.

"He was a great leader. He was a great man and he's one of the smartest men I've ever met in my life," said Vicksburg Mayor George Flaggs.

President Donald Trump sent

Circle to James Charles Evers a letter to the Evers' family. "Charles was an inspirational leader and great American. The First Lady and I are keeping you all in our thoughts and prayers during this difficult time," President Donald Trump wrote in the > Evers was one of six electors that cast their votes for Donald Trump to become president.

Evers was an American civil rights activist, businessman, disc jockey, politician and father. He died Wednesday, July 22, at his daughter's home in Brandon, MS. Evers left behind nine daughters and one son to cherish and continue his legacy.

BOOK REVIEW: CHOOLSPIRI BY CONNIE SCHOFIELD-MORRISON ILLUSTRATED BY FRANK MORRISON C.2020, BLOOMSBURY CHILDREN'S BOOKS $17.99 / $24.50 CANADA • 32 PAGES

By Terri Schlichenmeyer Columnist

A brand-new shiny box of crayons.

That's just one of the things you're looking forward to when you finally start school. Mom says you can't have them yet, though, you have to be patient. So why not read "I Got the School Spirit" by Connie

Schofield-Morrison, illustrated

by Frank Morrison in the meantime?

Fall arrived, summer was done, and that meant that it was finally here. It was time for her and all the kids in her city to "start the new school year."

As soon as she got out of bed, she brushed her teeth and fixed her hair. She put on her best clothes and her new shoes that told the world she had "the spirit." Then she ate a good breakfast. Fried eggs make a kid full of the spirit, too.

Everything was in her backpack, including the spirit. And as she waited for the school bus with other kids in her neighborhood, she noticed the spirit come "driving up the street." One of the other kids was crying – she must've been scared about her first day of school – so she hugged her new friend, and shared the spirit.

Inside the school building, she had to admit being nervous. She'd never been to school before, so she breathed deep and counted the spirit. She taught her new friends to do it, too.

And when she reached her classroom, she waited for attendance. That's when the spirit called her name and she spoke up loud and clear: "HERE!"

There's so much to learn at school and pretty soon, it was time for lunch. The spirit was at the table, and she shared. Her friends shared, too. Was the spirit hungry?

Not really but it was at the playground. It was there at story time. It sat on the floor and paid close attention. It was kind and friendly and happy to be learning. And when it was time to go home, the spirit hugged everyone hard and put them on the bus. Who knew what would happen at school tomorrow?

"I Got the School Spirit" is cute. And too repetitive. And unfortunate.

If the enthusiasm by author Connie Schofield-Morrison doesn't get a kid in the mood to learn, then the illustrations by Frank Morrison surely will. Even the most reticent, scared-stiff child will clearly see that going to school is something to be excited about but alas, the word "spirit" is a bit, a lot, on the overused, tiresome side.

Your child might not mind that so much but you might mind the rest of the story: the kids in this book don't social distance. They hug, sing and share food, squished on a crowded table in a crowded lunchroom. The lastyear-normal of it all may give today's parents pause, with timing that's unfortunate.

Know your child, and know her school. Bring "I Got the School Spirit" home, or put it aside with the knowledge that there'll be other First Days of School. At that time, for your little student, this book will shine.

The Association of South Jackson Neighborhoods holds backpack drive

By Edelia Dr. Jay Carthan Contributing Writer

The Association of South Jackson Neighborhoods (ASJN) and the business community held a Book Bag Drive for schools in the South Jackson area of the city August 7 at the Willowood Community Center.

"We figured that families were suffering during the pandemic, and we wanted to help students in the South Jackson area with school supplies. We gave away 1,000 book bags, 1,000 folders, 1,000 hand sanitizers and masks. We wanted students to be equipped for the 2020-2021 school year," said Ernest Ward, president of

The Jackson Public School District announced that student learning would be conducted virtually for the fall semester due to the coronavirus pandemic. As a result, the community wanted to help students get off to a great start for the 2020-2021 school year from their homes. Many business and community leaders donated enough school

"It just does not make sense to bring our scholars back at this time, that's why we've elected to use the entire first semester to instruct our scholars and serve them virtually only," said JPS Superintendent Errick L. Greene.

Mural unveiled in honor of Rust President Ivy R. Taylor

Special to The Mississippi Link

A new mural made its debut Friday, August 7, 2020, at Rust College. The Student Activities staff Marianne Ogutu, Keana Wash and Gino Pierre presented the mural to President Ivy R. Taylor in honor of her being the first female president of Rust

"My staff and I are so pleased to honor Dr. Taylor in this way." said Ogutu, director of Student Activities. "I want to give a major thanks to Robert Banks for the vision and creating a mural that will not only catch anyone's eye but will also tell a story.'

Banks created murals throughout the front area of the recreation center. "Each mural reflects the history of Rust College. The markers are a visual reminder and permanent historical record educating both students and visitors," said Banks.

Biden

One of Harris' standout moments of her presidential campaign came at the expense of Biden. During a debate, Harris said Biden made "very hurtful" comments about his past work with segregationist senators and slammed his opposition to busing as schools began to integrate in the

"There was a little girl in California who was a part of the second class to integrate her public schools, and she was bused to school every day," she said. "And that little girl was me."

Shaken by the attack, Biden called her comments "a mischaracterization of my position."

The exchange resurfaced recently. Biden's closest friends and a co-chair of his vice presidential vetting committee, former Connecticut Sen. Chris Dodd, still harbors concerns about the debate and that Harris hadn't expressed regret. The comments attributed to Dodd, and first reported by Politico, drew condemnation, especially from influential Democratic women who said Harris was being held to a standard that wouldn't apply to a man running for president.

Some Biden confidents said Harris campaign attack did irritate the former vice president, who had a friendly relationship with her. Harris was also close with Biden's late son, Beau, who served as Delaware attorney general while she held the same post in California.

But Biden and Harris have since returned to a warm relationship.

"Joe has empathy, he has a proven track record of leadership and more than ever before we need a president of the United States who understands who the people are, sees them where they are, and has a genuine desire to help and knows how to fight to get us where we need to be," Harris said at an event for Biden earlier this

At the same event, she bluntly attacked Trump, labeling him a "drug pusher" for his promotion of the malaria drug hydroxychloroquine as a treatment for the coronavirus, which has not been proved to be an effective treatment and may even be more harmful. After Trump tweeted, "when the looting starts, the shooting starts" in response to protests about the death of George Floyd, a black man, in police custody, Harris said his remarks "yet again show what racism looks like."

Harris has taken a tougher stand on policing since Floyd's killing. She cosponsored legislation in June that would ban police from using chokeholds and no-knock warrants, set a national use-offorce standard and create a national police misconduct registry, among other things. It would also reform the qualified immunity system that shields officers from liability.

The list included practices Harris did not vocally fight to reform while leading California's Department of Justice. Although she required DOJ officers to wear body cameras, she did not support legislation mandating it statewide. And while she now wants independent investigations of police shootings, she didn't support a 2015 California bill that would have required her office to take on such cases.

"We made progress, but clearly we are not at the place yet as a country where we need to be and California is no exception," she told The Associated Press recently. But the national focus on racial injustice now shows "there's no reason that we have to continue to wait."
