

Board: Public universities cannot require COVID-19 vaccine

The Associated Press

The board that governs Mississippi's public universities has voted to prohibit schools from requiring COVID-19 vaccines for students and staff.

The Board of Trustees of the Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning took the vote on Friday, said Caron Blanton, communications director for the Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning.

At an earlier meeting on Aug. 27, the board voted not to require public university students to be vaccinated against COVID-19. Board members decided to vote again because there was confusion about whether officials at individual schools could choose to mandate the shots if they wished to, Blanton said.

"Except for clinical settings within institutions, centers, departments and programs, institutions are directed to refrain from mandating the COVID-19 vaccination as a condition of enrollment or employment," the new motion passed Friday reads.

The clinical exception means that the policy adopted by the University of Mississippi Medical Center, which already announced that it will require students and staff to be vaccinated against COVID-19 by Nov. 1, will stay in place.

Friday's meeting took place during the board's annual retreat away from Jackson. It was not livestreamed, so the public could not hear what was discussed.

During the livestreamed August meeting, nine board members said the vaccine should not be mandated. Many said they support students getting the COVID-19 vaccine, but that shots should be voluntary.

The board's two physician members, Dr. Alfred McNair Jr. and Dr. Steven Cunningham, were the only two board members who voted to mandate vaccinations.

Supreme Court sets to hear arguments in big abortion case in Mississippi

Supreme Court Building

By Mark Sherman
Associated Press

The Supreme Court will hear arguments Dec. 1 in Mississippi's bid to have the landmark Roe v. Wade decision guaranteeing a woman's right to an abortion overturned.

The court issued its arguments calendar for late November and early December on Monday.

Mississippi is asking the high court to uphold its ban on most abortions after the 15th week of pregnancy. The state has told the court it should overrule Roe and the 1992 decision in Planned Parenthood v. Casey that prevent states from banning abortion before viability, the point at which a fetus can survive outside the womb, around 24 weeks of pregnancy.

The court recently allowed a Texas law to take effect that bans abortions after cardiac activity can be detected, around 6 weeks of pregnancy, before some women even know they are pregnant. The law is unusual in that it allows private citizens to sue people who may have facilitated a prohibited abortion. The court, split 5-4, did not rule on the constitutionality of the law, but rather declined to block enforcement while a challenge to the law plays out in the courts.

President Biden calls for end to systemic racism during CBCF Conference

By Stacy M. Brown
NNPA Newswire Correspondent

President Joe Biden applauded the work of the Congressional Black Caucus and called for ending systemic racism during the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's Phoenix Awards.

The awards closed out the week-long Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's Annual Legislative Conference.

"I got here just a year after the Black Caucus started, 50 years, and the Black Caucus has gotten stronger every year with a powerhouse of ideas and a training ground for a lot of great leaders," President Biden remarked.

"The CBC has made a difference, and as we emerge from this pandemic, the time is right to root out systemic racism. The time is now for a moral response to heal the soul of this nation and to ensure that black Americans are fully dealt into the economy, and to this society, they have built and shaped for centuries."

Hosted by actress Angela Bassett, the Phoenix Awards recognizes extraordinary contributions to the black community and featured Stacey Abrams, Ledisi, and others.

Singer Chaka Khan closed out the awards with her hit song, "I'm Every Woman."

The conference also acknowledged the largest Congressional Black Caucus (CBC) class to date.

"The conference programming reflect[ed] our charge for 2021 and beyond to a continued commitment to uplifting, empowering and mobilizing black communities through the theme of 'Black Excellence Unparalleled: Pressing Forward in Power,'" CBCF officials noted.

The conference featured thought leaders, legislators and concerned citizens who engage in economic development, civil and social justice, public health, and education.

CBC Chair Rep. Joyce Beatty (D-Ohio) opened the conference with honorary co-chairs Rep. Anthony Brown (D-Maryland) and Rep. Lisa Blunt Rochester (D-Delaware), CBCF Chair Lori George Billingsley, and CBCF President Tonya Veasey.

Sessions included "Re-envisioning Liberation for the Global Black Diaspora" and "Real Talk: Conversations about Family Caregiving in the Black Community," featuring Melanie Campbell, president, and CEO of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation, and convener of the Black Women's Roundtable.

The conference also tackled "The Impact of Covid-19 on Black Businesses: One Year Later," where panelists discussed the racial wealth divide.

"Black businesses continue to experience the downside of navigating a pandemic and dramatically reduced access to resources especially customers and contracts," conference officials stated.

"The lack of equitable access to capital and shrinking reserves continues to hinder sustainability. Clearly, COVID-19 has impacted our society in more ways than one, and black entrepreneurs are fighting a pandemic within a pandemic."

Sessions also included an "Environmental Justice Brain-trust," which focused on the connection between environmental justice and health disparities.

The COVID-19 pandemic laid bare the significant impact both environmental and health disparities have on communities of color.

Young peoples' ministries at College Hill share love

By Daphne Monix Higgins
Contributing Writer

The event was planned to be held in the parking lot of College Hill Missionary Baptist Church, but the weather had other ideas. The Youth Ministry of the church, located at 1600 Florence Ave., Jackson, did not let the forecast of rain dampen the spirits of their hosting a special Wednesday Night worship event for the young people of the church and community.

The event, "Park and Praise" was held recently in the sanctuary of the church, instead of the parking lot and it came with a lot of praise from the young participants and their guests.

Welcome Back to School Supply Drive hosted by the youth ministry

Linda Rush, the director of the church's Youth Ministry said, "The impact of COVID-19 forced us to think outside of the box to how we would adapt our worshipping experience during an unprecedented pandemic."

Writers’ Guild honors Founder Dr. Jerry K. Domatob

By Felicia Harried
Claiborne County Writers Guild

The Claiborne County Writers’ Guild is a small but passionate group of writers who actively promote the literary arts in the community. From encouraging students with scholarships to critiquing each other’s work, to just good fellowship and enlightenment, they are all about inspiring new talent to grow and new works to come forth.

To honor one of their founding members, Dr. Jerry Komia Domato, for his impact and influence in the community, members decided to write tributes to him. Writers’ Guild member Rose King would like to acknowledge that Dr. Domatob serves as vice president of the Harriette Person Memorial Library Friends of the Library.

Tributes to a literary icon
Dr. Jerry Domatob stimulates positive, influential thought patterns, creative words aimed at producing the greater good for humanity. Dr. Domatob is a peaceful, soft-spoken, humble man, small in stature but huge in mentoring the writers to be effective in using the power of words for good. Civilized people see and help others to see that right and wrong, love and hate have no color character in the evidence of who we are. Dr. Domatob is humble, kind, helpful, compassionate and one who has impeccable character. – Evg. Sarah G. Chambliss

I perceive Dr. Domatob to be a humble man; a man of understanding and wisdom clothed in a soft-spoken demeanor. I appreciate and applaud his sincere concern for others. Most of all, I appreciate his willingness to help others. If I were to describe him in a few words, or label him, my banner for Dr. Domatob would read, “Let brotherly love continue.” – Evg. Mavis Randle

Dr. Domatob, our community is richly blessed by having you as an educator, writer and photographer, who is grounded in love and peace for a community you now call home. As a founding member you searched out the writers in our small community and formed the Claiborne County Writers’ Guild. Whenever we met, your first question would be, “Have you written anything?” You always encouraged each of us to write and share our words with others. You said by sharing your work with the public you bless others and lift their spirit. Now when I first met Dr. Domatob years ago, he walked up to me at the Exxon station and said, “Greetings sir, you are Robert Anderson, and you sir are a writer!” Hesitantly I said, “Yes.” Doc explained that he was trying to establish a writers guild in Port Gibson, MS and I want you to be a part of the group. I guess someone had peeped me out to Doc because he wanted to read some of my work. A few weeks later five writers gathered at Christian Chapel Church. Dr. Domatob, Sarah Gordon Chambliss, Katie L. Daniels, Marie Thompson, and I, Robert Anderson, formed The Claiborne County Writers’ Guild. So, I thank you Dr. Jerry Domatob, for your encouragement, your friendship and everything you do to inspire others. – Robert Anderson

The task at hand is lofty and grand
It’s simple, yet challenging too
Jerry Domatob, man; I believe that I can Write a short and sweet tribute to you.
As I set about to write a few words out About our good friend Jerry D
I didn’t mean to be long, but something went wrong
A flood of words started coming to me.
If adjectives were money and adverbs were honey
He would make you a rich diabetic
But the words he imparts come from his pure heart
And his efforts are quite copacetic.
Komia is kind, the most humble you’ll find
And “Thank you” is always his greeting
Out of thin air seems like he’s always there
With his camera, especially if there’s eating.
He’s taken thousands of pics, that’s a lot of shutter clicks
So what DO you do with all them pictures you take?
We primp and we pose and sometimes turn up our nose
Do you sell them or throw them in the lake?
Well we’ve shared a laugh, and I haven’t told the half
But I must bring this tribute to an end,
You are quirky and sweet, genuine and upbeat
I am glad to consider you my friend.

that students be vaccinated against measles, mumps and rubella, according to Institutions of Higher Learning bylaws. Students studying in a health-related field must be vaccinated against hepatitis B.

Some Mississippi cities, including the capital of Jackson, have required workers to be vaccinated against COVID-19. Jackson Mayor Antar Lumumba extended a deadline for city workers to show proof of vaccination until Oct. 15.

The extension also applies to contractors and subcontractors who are paid in whole or in part from funds provided under a city contract, WLBT-TV reported.

Those who choose not to provide proof of vaccination must undergo weekly testing at their own expense. Employees who don't show their vaccination status must also wear masks at all times while at work.

took the vote as an ominous sign about where the court, its conservative majority fortified with three appointees of former President Donald Trump, might be heading on abortion.

The providers have said Mississippi wants the court to "scuttle a half-century of precedent and invite states to ban abortion entirely."

Among the hundreds of legal briefs on both sides of the case is one filed Monday by more than 500 athletes in support of abortion rights, warning that stripping constitutional protection from abortion would be devastating to female athletes. The group includes Crissy Perham, an Olympic gold medalist in swimming who said she was speaking publicly about her abortion for the first time.

Perham, who competed under the name Ahmann-Leighton, said her decision to have an abortion after becoming pregnant "ultimately led me to being an Olympian, a college graduate, and a proud mother today." She won three medals, including two golds, at the Barcelona Games in 1992.

Other athletes who signed the high-court filing include soccer stars Megan Rapinoe and Becky Sauerbrunn; basketball players Diana Taurasi, Brittany Griner and Breanna Stewart; and water polo player Ashleigh Johnson.

The Mississippi law was enacted in 2018, but was blocked after a federal court challenge. The state's only abortion clinic, Jackson Women's Health Organization, remains open and offers abortions up to 16 weeks of pregnancy. About 100 abortions a year are done after the 15th week, the providers said.

More than 90% of abortions in the U.S. take place in the first 13 weeks of pregnancy, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The justices will be at their seats in the marble courtroom for the biggest test of abortion rights in decades.

The high court announced earlier this month that the justices plan to return to their majestic, marble courtroom for arguments beginning in October, more than a year and a half after the in-person sessions were halted because of the coronavirus pandemic.

The court is allowing live audio of the session, but members of the public will not be able to attend in person because of the coronavirus pandemic. Reporters who cover the court regularly will be present.

The justices all have been vaccinated, the court has said, allowing a return to in-person arguments after more than a year of arguments via telephone. The courthouse remains closed to the public.

The justices had been hearing cases by phone during the pandemic.

This year's program delivered discussions on the intersections of these two areas and what must occur to address these disparities.

Rep. James Clyburn (D-S.C.) led a voting rights brain trust titled, "Winning the Fight for Voting Rights," where panelists will discuss the urgency of the John Lewis Voting Rights Act, Alabama Congresswoman Terri Sewell's legislation to restore and strengthen the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and address modern-day barriers to the ballot box.

Additionally, the conference featured a panel discussion on the importance of mental health in the black community.

Panels also took on the narrowing of the wealth gap and the state of housing in Black America, Sustaining Fathers, Black Men and Boys through the Impact of Covid Pandemic and Racial Justice, and a discussion on the impact of the late boxing great Muhammad Ali.

The 13th annual Black Women's Roundtable Policy Forum: The Power of Black Women's Leadership in the Voting Rights Movement, also occurred during the week-long event.

The conference concluded with the annual Phoenix Awards and the "Black Block Party."

Deadline extended for city employees and contract workers to provide proof of Covid-19 vaccination

The Mississippi Link Newswire

Mayor Chokwe Lumumba issued an executive order extending the deadline for COVID-19 guidelines requiring city employees, as well as contractors and subcontractors who are paid in whole or in part from funds provided under a city contract, to provide proof of COVID-19 vaccination to October 15, 2021.

Those employees and contractors, including temporary workers, who choose not to provide proof of their full vaccination status shall participate in weekly testing at their own cost. These employees will also continue to wear a face covering at all times when at the workplace and/or during working hours when they can be expected to physically interact with city employees and members of the public.

The order does allow for reasonable accommodations to be considered on an individualized basis. However, any employee, contractor or subcontractor that is not vaccinated must still participate in weekly testing.

The amended order is effective September 20, 2021.

demic year. We stepped up to the challenge and created a fun-filled unique event – we dubbed as "Park and Praise." This event was also enjoyed by parents, as well as our children, youth and college ministries. Despite the challenges we have faced thus far, this event reaffirms Psalm 150 – 'We will Praise Ye the Lord' – regardless!"

The evening offered the young people of the church the opportunity to fellowship in person, while displaying their excitement for being in God's House. Gospel music filled the room, greetings and prayers were shared and the word of God was delivered by the guest speaker, Samuel Green, 16, an active member of Berean Seventh-Day Adventist Church in Jackson.

The son of Louis and Joann Green, Samuel has preached God's word in over 450 churches in cities in Mississippi, Alabama, Ar and Texas. God has also blessed Samuel to preach in Calgary Alberta, Canada. Locally, Samuel has been featured on WLBT-3's weekly segment, "Look Around Mississippi," and Fox 40's "Morning Show," as well as "The Jackson Showcase Music Awards."

He had a regional appearance on Fox 6 Birmingham. Nationally, he has appeared on CNN's special broadcast, "Faces of Faith" and NBC's "Today Show" where he was interviewed by Kathy Lee Gifford and Hoda Kotb. Samuel has also completed filming the new TV series entitled, "Bible Treasures," a TV series that airs regularly on 3ABN Kids Network TV and is shown worldwide.

Rush added, "We truly appreciate our guest speaker, Samuel Green, for his dynamic and inspirational message."

Ashley Knight, president of the Youth Ministry, shared her delight in the evening by saying, "The Park and Praise was a wonderful event with great energy. The past year has kept us from being together like we would like to be. This gave us a chance to get together with our current youth ministry members and new ministry members. We had a great time."

The young people of church also gathered weeks earlier in the parking lot of the church to offer a community service to school aged children in the surrounding neighborhood.

The College and Youth Ministries hosted a "Welcome Back to School" Supplies Drive, thru a few weeks after the start of school to make sure that all children who still needed supplies were properly equipped. The event hosts lined the rear of the church's parking lot with bookbags filled with binders, tablets, writing utensils, personal protective equipment and etc. More than 50 bookbags were prepared and given away.

Arion Parks, a first-year teacher at Raines Elementary and a member of the College Ministry, said, "Just being a part of this event was heart-warming. To know that our children can have all of the supplies they need makes for a more comfortable learning environment for the child and the parent. To see the smiles on their faces when they open their backpacks is such a joy. Thank you, College Hill, for helping to take care of our children."

Coach Deion Sanders is good for college football

By James B. Ewers Jr.
President Emeritus
Teen Mentoring Committee of Ohio

Football is a part of the American landscape. The buildup to each season is always exciting.

Like most of you, I am a football fan.

This affinity for football has been with me for many years. At the start of each season, I have these football talks with my friends. Our discussions run the gamut. We talk about spread offenses and who has the best defense.

I am an old school guy, so I can talk high school, college and professional football.

While all football is great football, I especially like college football. Maybe it is because these guys are student-athletes. As we know, most college football players will not go to the professional ranks.

Another topic that we have spirited debates about is football coaches. Recently, after a short discussion about professional coaches, we quickly moved to the college coaches.

One name that stands out for me in the college ranks is Deion Sanders.

First off, in my opinion, there has not been a college coach in any sport that has come on the scene like Sanders.

He is an eight-time All-Pro, 1994 NFL Defensive Player of The Year and a two-time Super Bowl Champion. These are impressive credentials no matter the yard marker that is on the field.

If you recall, Sanders, now coach

Sanders was a star student-athlete at Florida State University. He was accustomed to winning. Losing was not a part of his profile. Yet Sanders did not receive his degree from Florida State University. He is a proud graduate of Talladega College, an Historically Black College and University (HBCU) in Alabama.

While Sanders has won numerous and prestigious awards and honors, I believe his college graduation ranks right up there as one of his greatest achievements.

Jackson State University in Mississippi named Sanders as its head football coach ahead of the Spring 2021 season. This HBCU gained instant world-wide publicity because of it. Folks may not know about Jackson State University, but they do know about Deion Sanders.

It is my strong opinion that HBCU athletic teams have benefitted directly from him being in college football. Sanders has changed the conversation and brought with him a different perspective.

Prior to Sanders being hired, I cannot recall HBCU football getting so much airtime, especially on ESPN. Media at all levels have stories and interviews regarding football at HBCUs almost daily.

The Grambling State University and Southern University Bayou Classic football game played on the Saturday after Thanksgiving was probably the most consistently televised contest.

Now, every week, you can listen or watch HBCU football. That is what I call the CSE (Coach Sanders Effect).

Sanders wants to truly market HBCU football. He has made comments about how the SWAC (Southwestern Athletic Conference) and the MEAC (Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference) can work together.

He is thinking about the future and where does HBCU football fit into it. I believe he is challenging traditional mores and that is a good thing.

Recently, I read where he wanted the players names on the back of their jersey. That is a good idea. Parents want to identify their sons by their name and not by their number.

SWAC and MEAC schools are formidable opponents and have excellent academic reputations. If there are discussions about working together, allowances and compromises will be on the table. "Give and take" is what makes for healthy agreements.

Power 5 conferences create alignment opportunities when they see it is feasible for them to do so. For example, Texas and Oklahoma will be joining the SEC (Southeastern Conference) in the future. Both are currently members of The Big 12 Conference.

We will have to wait and see what happens with the SWAC and the MEAC as to whether it will gain a first down in the decision-making room.

Nonetheless, you cannot say that Sanders is sitting by and just watching things happen. He wants to have a hand in making things happen. I am cheering for him.

I believe coach Deion Sanders has come to Jackson State University at a prime time.

Access to high-speed internet is not a luxury; it's a necessity.

Too many Mississippians do not have access to the affordable, high-speed internet they need to work, attend school, see the doctor, and avoid isolation.

That's why AARP fought for the Emergency Broadband Benefit, a federal program to help lower the cost of high-speed internet for eligible households during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Mississippians who may have experienced financial setbacks during the pandemic or are struggling to get by may be eligible for a discount of up to $50 per month—or up to $75 per month for households on Tribal lands—for high-speed internet services through this short-term program.

Doing your part

By Shewanda Riley
Columnist

“You didn’t tell us we had to do that.” I think the first few weeks of every school year I hear this phrase at least once per day per class (probably an average of 15-20 times a week). I hear it so much that I start to doubt that I’d given clear instructions on what needed to be done for class.

I even review the syllabus and other class assignments to see if I could figure out if an oversight on my part was the cause of their complaint. After doing this, I see that the class instructions and policies were clearly outlined in the class syllabus. I even redesigned parts of the syllabus to make it easier for them to understand. However, after doing this and still getting the blank stares and comments like “I didn’t know I was supposed to do that,” a few weeks later, I started to think that the problem went beyond my student simply not understanding instructions. So where was the break down?

When I asked one class how I could help, they suggested that I tell them everyday what to do. After comments like those, I then reminded them that the assignments were written in the syllabus, and they’d know what to do...if they read the syllabus. Even though they were adults and in college, they still seemed to struggle with taking full responsibility for their work. One student even said me not telling him what to do at the end of class like his other instructors caused him not to get his work done.

As I was thinking about how challenging it was, it struck me that God must think the same way about us sometimes. We are given the tools and strategies through our weekly church services and individual times of prayer and bible study. But for some reason, we want to blame others when we don’t get what we want. We blame Sis. This or Bro. That for making us lose our joy when it’s really our choice to give it away.

James 2:14-17 says, “Dear friends, do you think you’ll get anywhere in this if you learn all the right words but never do anything? Does merely talking about faith indicate that a person really has it?....Isn’t it obvious that God-talk without God-acts is outrageous nonsense?” (Message) It’s like praying to God to lose weight then continuing to eat junk food and refusing to exercise.

Like my students, we have to accept that we play a part in our spiritual successes and failures. We can’t passively wait for God to bless us. We must take an active role and seek out those blessings. It’s not enough to say that we’re praying for a situation to change; we must act in faith on what we believe is God’s answer to our prayers.

Faith without works is dead

By Pastor Simeon R. Green III
Special to The Mississippi Link

It takes grace to keep the law of God. Someone may say, “You are not saved by works.” That is correct. Religious works of your own cannot save you. You are saved by grace through faith, but nothing will bring faith to life except works; all faith is dead without works. Therefore, if you are not working it, you do not believe it in the truest sense.

This gets into the home. A family head or any show of authority is definitely becoming outmoded. Children raised without the curb of parental authority become rebels against any authority. Because of this, you read in your newspapers that educational institutions and places of higher learning have become battlegrounds where it is necessary to have armed guards to protect the teachers from the students. Where did all that come from?

Many people are in darkness. Supposed-to-be Christian churches no longer condemn but endorse all classes of sex deviates, even to ordaining homosexuals as pastors. My friend, this condition has left people in a place where they scoff at the Bible and at anyone who insists on believing that it contains God’s Word and His for man. They label Bible accounts as myths and deny God’s creation; but while they are denying its truths, they are fulfilling its prophecy to the letter.

Remember this: you can deny God’s Word, but you can never get out of fulfilling your place in it. Every one of our pictures are in the Word of God. Brother and Sister, if you love God, live for God, and according to His statutes, your picture is in it. On the other hand, if you deny it and rebel against it, your picture is there too. You may choose the way you want to go, but God chooses your end. We read in Matthew 24:12 Jesus’ words, “And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold.”

According to God’s eternal Word, the simple Words of Jesus were “If ye love Me keep My commandments” (John 14:15). He also said, “For My yoke is easy, and My burden is light” (Matthew 11:30). Love makes it easy, but you must beware because lawlessness and rebellion shall abound.

According to a new report from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, two-dose regimens of the Moderna and Pfizer-BioNTech mRNA vaccines provided a high level of protection against COVID-19 hospitalizations in a real-world evaluation at 21 U.S. hospitals during the period between March 11 and August 15.

Vaccine effectiveness against COVID-19 hospitalization for Moderna and Pfizer-BioNTech doses were 93 percent and 88 percent, respectively, whereas the single-dose Janssen [Johnson & Johnson] vaccine had a lower effectiveness rate at 71 percent.

Protection for the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine declined four months after vaccination.

Released Friday, September 17, the report revealed that individuals vaccinated with the Janssen vaccine also had lower postvaccination anti-SARS-CoV-2 antibody levels than did recipients of mRNA vaccines.

In addition, although an immunologic correlate of protection has not been established for COVID-19 vaccines, the researchers found that antibody titers after infection and vaccination have been associated with protection.

“These real-world data suggest that the 2-dose Moderna and Pfizer-BioNTech mRNA vaccine regimens provide more protection than does the 1-dose Janssen viral vector vaccine regimen,” the researchers wrote.

“Although the Janssen vaccine had lower observed vaccine effectiveness, one dose of Janssen vaccine still reduced risk for COVID-19–associated hospitalization by 71 percent.”

The study included 3,689 patients.

Overall, 2,362 (64 percent) were unvaccinated; 476 (12.9 percent) were fully vaccinated with the Moderna vaccine; 738 (20 percent) were fully vaccinated with the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine, and 113 (3.1 percent) were fully vaccinated with the Janssen vaccine.

Among all participants, the median age was 58 years, 48 percent female, 23 percent non-black, and 18 percent Hispanic.

Efficacy for the Moderna vaccine was 93 percent at 14 to 120 days (the median equaled 66 days) after receiving the second vaccine dose and 92 percent after 120 days (with the median equaling 141 days).

For Pfizer-BioNTech, efficacy stood at 91 percent at 14 to 120 days (the median equaled 69 days) after receiving the second vaccine dose but declined significantly to 77 percent at more than 120 days (the median equaled 143 days).

The postvaccination antibody analysis included 100 healthy volunteers, 32 fully vaccinated with Moderna, 51 fully vaccinated with Pfizer-BioNTech, and 17 with Janssen.

Antibody levels were higher in participants vaccinated with the Moderna vaccine than those who received the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine or the Janssen vaccine.

The report revealed that anti-spike levels in participants vaccinated with the Moderna vaccine did not significantly differ from those in recipients of the Pfizer-BioNTech but were considerably higher than levels in participants who received the Janssen.

The report arrives as a U.S. Food and Drug Administration panel reviewed the need for booster shots of the Pfizer-BioNTech coronavirus vaccine.

The panel also expected to vote on whether the agency should approve additional doses for people 16 and older.

“We will evaluate and see,” said Dr. James Hildreth, the president and CEO of Meharry Medical College and an FDA panelist deciding on the booster shots.

Pfizer vaccine for children 5 to 11 is safe with robust antibody response

By Stacy M. Brown
NNPA Newswire Contributor

A Phase 2/3 trial conducted by Pfizer and BioNTech revealed that the COVID-19 vaccine was safe and generated a “robust antibody response” in children ages 5 to 11.

These are the first such results released for this age group for a US COVID-19 vaccine. Pfizer said it plans to submit to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for emergency use authorization soon.

The company said it hopes to have approval by the end of the calendar year.

“Over the past nine months, hundreds of millions of people ages 12 and older from around the world have received our COVID-19 vaccine,” said Albert Bourla, chairman and chief executive officer, Pfizer.

“We are eager to extend the protection afforded by the vaccine to this younger population, subject to regulatory authorization, especially as we track the spread of the Delta variant and the substantial threat it poses to children,” Bourla continued.

“Since July, pediatric cases of COVID-19 have risen by about 240 percent in the U.S. — underscoring the public health need for vaccination. These trial results provide a strong foundation for seeking authorization of our vaccine for children 5 to 11 years old, and we plan to submit them to the FDA and other regulators with urgency.”

The trial included 2,268 participants ages 5 to 11 and used a two-dose regimen of the vaccine administered 21 days apart.

The trial used a 10-microgram dose — smaller than the 30-microgram dose that has been used for those 12 and older.

The Phase 1/2/3 trial initially enrolled up to 4,500 children ages 6 months to 11 years of age in the United States, Finland, Poland, and Spain from more than 90 clinical trial sites.

It was designed to evaluate the safety, tolerability, and immunogenicity of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine on a two-dose schedule (approximately 21 days apart) in three age groups: ages 5 to 11 years; ages 2 to 5 years; and ages 6 months to 2 years. Based on the Phase 1 dose-escalation portion of the trial, children ages 5 to 11 years received two-dose schedule of 10 µg each while children under age 5 received a lower 3 µg dose for each injection in the Phase 2/3 study.

The trial enrolled children with or without prior evidence of SARS-CoV-2 infection

“We are pleased to be able to submit data to regulatory authorities for this group of school-aged children before the start of the winter season,” said Dr. Ugur Sahin, CEO and co-founder of BioNTech.

“The safety profile and immunogenicity data in children aged 5 to 11 years vaccinated at a lower dose are consistent with those we have observed with our vaccine in other older populations at a higher dose.”

Pass the Freedom to Vote Act: Time is running out to protect the right to vote in 2022 and beyond

By Ben Jealous
People For the American Way

Republican-controlled state legislatures have imposed new voting restrictions. They are getting ready to create more safe congressional seats for Republicans through abusive partisan redistricting. They are undermining faith in elections with false claims about election fraud and demands for fake “audits.”

The good news is that there is new momentum in Congress and a new bill to protect our democracy. We need to get it passed.

The new Freedom to Vote Act would protect the right to vote, end unfair partisan gerrymandering, and shine a light on the flood of dark money that allows billionaires to buy our elections in secret. It includes key sections of the earlier For the People Act, which passed the U.S. House of Representatives but was blocked in the Senate by Republican filibusters.

The Freedom to Vote act also addresses one of the worst things about some of the new voter suppression laws: provisions that give state officials the power to override voters and overturn election results.

There are other good things in the bill. It would make Election Day a federal holiday. Every state would have automatic voter registration, early voting and drop box accessibility. These would be major advances in making voting more accessible to everyone.

Voting rights advocates are rallying support for the Freedom to Vote Act. One of the sponsors, Democratic Sen. Joe Manchin of West Virginia, worked hard to come up with a bill that he could support. He still hopes to get some Republican senators to join him.

That is an uphill battle. Republican Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell has signaled that no Republican senators will support this compromise. And he will use the Senate’s filibuster rules to prevent the Senate from passing election protections that are supported by huge majorities of the American people – something he has already done with the For the People Act.

Ideally, voting rights should be a nonpartisan issue. Congress repeatedly passed extensions of the Voting Rights Act that were signed by Republican presidents. But right-wing politicians and judges have spent years trying to undermine the Voting Rights Act in the name of “states’ rights” or “state sovereignty.”

With help from right-wing justices on the Supreme Court, states have imposed all kinds of new voting restrictions in recent years.

The number of new restrictive voting laws jumped massively after former President Donald Trump was defeated in last year’s presidential election. Grassroots organizing helped drive strong turnout among black voters in key states, and Republicans have decided to respond by making it harder for people to register and vote. That makes it clear that the new voter suppression rules have nothing to do with “election integrity” and everything to do with maintaining power at all costs.

The Constitution very clearly gives the federal government the right to step in when states undermine democracy with restrictive and discriminatory voting rules. That’s what Congress did more than 50 years ago when it passed the Voting Rights Act.

President Joe Biden and Democratic leaders in the U.S. Senate must do whatever it takes to pass the Freedom to Vote Act. With democracy and voting rights at stake, we cannot let Jim Crow-era filibuster rules in the U.S. Senate have the final word.

Ben Jealous serves as president of People For the American Way. Jealous has decades of experience as a leader, coalition builder, campaigner for social justice and seasoned nonprofit executive. In 2008, he was chosen as the youngest-ever president and CEO of the NAACP. He is a graduate of Columbia University and Oxford, where he was a Rhodes Scholar, and he has taught at Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania.

Critical Race Theory (CRT)

H Ralph Samuels Jr.

*A subject now has surfaced and it's making many leery;
But many have no idea about the truth of Critical Race Theory*

*It's rubbing many the wrong way and making many people sore;
Some are saying it's even worse than education's Common Core*

*So I'll try to make it plain and as simple as I can;
And pray that in the end
you begin to understand*

*Now some have misinterpreted it's meaning from the start;
and have sought to ignore its merits being critical of every single part.*

*They're making it more political and more racial than they should;
And it's become more of a distraction overshadowing what is good.*

*At the heart of the matter
all it's really trying to say; is that unjust laws, policies and structures are still embedded in society today.*

*There are still some attitudes and even behaviors concerning race;
That are rooted in American life and they really need to change.*

*Now many get offended and we have to be real clear;
and they scream “but I'm not racist”
well, no one said you were, my dear.*

*It's not concerned with the individual as being the one with racists views;
But the systems that perpetuates unfair laws against certain hues.*

*And because it opens the door and challenges the pages of history;
many are afraid their children will discover
The truth about this concept called CRT.*

So critics link it to other beliefs to which many will not agree Like Marxism, even socialism and a term called intersectionality

*Now before you get confused just stay with me on this page;
because the waters can get muddy in this sensitive day and age.*

*If we want to make a difference in the world in which we live;
We must stop the chain of lies and the truth we all must give.*

*We can't change events of the past
Nor ignore the pain they caused;
But we can make sure not to repeat them
By doing away with unjust laws.*

Let's end the practice of “redlining” by denying certain people the right to get a loan to buy a house because the neighborhood ain't white.

Or the discriminatory practice when they try get an appraisal and the property value drops because their eyes are not blue or hazel.

*That's just a few of the injustices that CRT seeks to address;
And it's the system not the individual that is causing such a mess.*

*But it takes the individual to be honest and say it's true;
But they'll never understand until they walk in another man's shoes.*

*So people get informed and most of all let's do what's right;
And ask the good Lord to forgive us
Forgive us all, black and white.*

“The Name Inspires The Pen”

The Haitian dilemma

By Dr. John Warren
San Diego Voice and Viewpoint/NNPA Member

This is a painful commentary. Humanity demands that we all be treated with fairness. This country has boasted the guarantee to the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness. Those who live in a world without such assurances hear what we say and see the quality of life that even our poorest of citizens appear to enjoy. So we don’t blame the Haitians for doing what each of us would do if we were in their shoes.

This matter is made even more painful when we consider that the politics of color appears to have entered this picture. The recent surge of migrants from South America was not met with expatriation but detentions. It appears that, for now, only single individuals are being deported and not families or children. They are allegedly being processed.

Then we have the history of how we have dealt with Haitians and the matter of political asylum. Let’s not forget that in 1992 when the U.S. Coast Guard was intercepting Haitian refugees at sea, some on inner tubes and small life rafts; these people were quickly returned to Haiti even though they claimed political asylum while, during the same period, refugees from Cuba also claiming political asylum were taken in and placed in detention camps in Florida. The massive number of more than 100,000

Afghans recently airlifted by the U.S. government and expecting to find homes in America, and at the same time we have over 3 million DACA residents also seeking to be recognized and given citizenship, all adds up to numbers that frighten Americans with the question of when do we close the door? The big question is, are we going to treat everyone fairly and, if so, what constitutes “fair”? The same rules must apply to all without the appearance of favoritism. There has to be a limit on the number of people permitted in the boat or the boat itself will sink.

The problems in all the countries in this hemisphere are closely related to corruption in the governments of those countries along with their crime problems. The storms and earthquakes that have hit Haiti compound a problem that already existed, not to mention the recent assassination of the Haitian president.

We can control the humanity with which people are being expelled. No more images of border agents on horseback riding people down because they are still coming across the river. There has to be a better way.

But to the Haitians, and others gathering to illegally enter this country, that cannot be permitted. You create your own humanitarian crisis by making the choice to follow the rumour that all you have to do is show up and come in.

To Americans of all colors, the issue has to be one of more than race. Let’s deal with this issue as we can and should.

IAMH supports food pantries at local HBCUs

The Mississippi Link Newswire

The Institute for the Advancement of Minority Health (IAMH) supported the Historically Black College & University (HBCU) student food pantry donation event which was held Sunday, September 19, 2021 at the Smith Wills stadium in Jackson from 2 pm-4 pm.

The drive thru donation effort was sponsored by Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated, Rho Lambda Omega Chapter in conjunction with a grant from the CDC foundation. It was the kick-off to support HBCU Awareness week.

The items collected will support student food pantries at Jackson State University, Tougaloo College and Hinds Community College (Utica Branch).

“Food insecurity is a huge problem among children and young adults in Mississippi. Many students that attend historically black colleges and universities come from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Dr. Sandra Carr Melvin, a graduate of Tougaloo College said, “I am honored to give back to my alma mater and to support this most worthy cause.”

The Institute for the Advancement of Minority Health was established in 2019 to reduce health disparities among disadvantaged and underserved minority populations in the Mississippi through the development of collaborative partnerships with community stakeholders and the implementation of evidence-based public health interventions with a particular focus on health equity.

Dr. Sandra Carr Melvin supported the pantry drive for local HBCUs. The effort was coordinated by Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc., Rho Lambda Omega Chapter in conjunction with HBCU Awareness Week.

This weekend, your team is going to win.

You can see it already, the way they’ve been playing so far this season, and you’re sure they can take it all the way to February. For now, though, this weekend’s a must-see and everybody looks good; as in “The Forgotten First” by Keyshawn Johnson and Bob Glauber, some even play on the shoulders of giants.

If you’re a baseball fan, you surely know the story of how Jackie Robinson became the first black ball player in the major leagues. What you might not know is that four black men integrated pro football a year before Robinson’s history-making at-bat.

Abandoned by his mother and raised by a paternal uncle because his father had other interests, Kenny Washington, who signed with the Los Angeles Rams on March 21, 1946, was first drawn to baseball but the truth was, he could play any sport. Having battled rickets as a young boy, he suffered deformities in both his legs, but that didn’t matter –

Johnson and Glauber report that Washington was fast.

So was Woody Strode, who signed up with the Rams not long after Washington. Strode’s mother was Native American; his father was black, and though Strode had a modeling career as a young man (he’d once posed nude for a Nazi artist) and he’d served in the Army Air Corps, his life always circled back to football.

When he was a child, Marion Motley grew to be so much larger than his peers that when he was at football practice, other kids’ parents begged for him to wear more padding so that collisions with him “wouldn’t hurt quite so much.” Much later, Motley played for the Cleveland Browns, along with Bill Willis, who almost didn’t take up football because he didn’t think he could play as well as his brother, Claude.

Within mere months, these four men broke the color barrier in pro football. And, say the authors, “That history is not told enough...”

Another thing that’s not told enough: what happened before these four men signed on with their respective teams, and how their first year proceeded. It’s infuriating, it’s astounding, and it’s all laid out here inside “The Forgotten First.”

And yet, getting to it might not be so easy.

Authors Keyshawn Johnson and Bob Glauber are a former pro-ball player and an NFL columnist, respectively, and the tale they tell speaks to the heart of the fan with deep knowledge of mid-twentieth-century football teams, players, coaches and college ball.

It’s a wide story that encompasses decades and dozens of peripheral people who had a hand in integrating the sport generations ago, from secondary education on up. Then it brings readers full-circle to reveal the inside of the game as it is today.

And all this will be irresistible if you’re a fan. If you’re not a history-minded, live-for-football-season, paint-your-face fan, you may be in well over your head with this book. If you’re obsessive about the game, though, “The Forgotten First” is a big win.

Tiger nation amped about home opener

By Tim Ward
Sports Editor

After Three weeks of road games, winning two games and losing one game, Jackson State will play its first home game of the season Saturday against Delta State at 2 p.m. The W.C. Gorden Classic will be in full swing. Many Tiger fans feel the team should be undefeated after losing a close game 2 to 7 last week to University of Louisiana in Monroe. Tiger nation travels well, almost to the point of taking over the home team's stadium. But now, they get to pack their own stadium.

Offensively, JSU has been struggling to score points in two of the three games. Scoring only 7 points against FAMU and last week against ULM, the offense has shown flashes, but can't consistently put the ball in the endzone.

Freshman QB, Shedeur Sanders, the national freshman player of the week, two weeks has played good football. Coach Prime, his dad, says he's played, "alright." His record setting stats came in the Southern Heritage Classic versus Tennessee State, who happens to be coached by Eddie George, a good friend of coach Deion Sanders.

Shedeur completed 9 of 10 passes for 38 yards with 3 touchdowns. His 9 completions was a record for the Southern Heritage Classic. Sanders' season stats are 8 yards, 4 touchdowns, 1 interception, while completing 2% of his passes. Currently, he leads the SWAC in completions with

Coach Prime

6 and completion percentage with 7. He's second in passing yards behind Prairie View's Jawon Pass. Shedeur is 8th in touchdown passes with 4 and also 8th averaging 28 yards passing per game. Excellent stats for a true freshman. One of the knocks on Shedeur Sanders has been his ball security. He's fumbled the ball more times than people want to know and was only able to recover a few of them. Ball control in all the games thus far has been less than ideal for JSU.

The "Darkside" Defense has been lights out this season. Holding opponents to an average of 11 points per game, the defense is led by Aubrey Miller who leads the SWAC in tackles and was named SWAC defensive player of the week earlier this season. James Houston leads the SWAC in sacks with 5. Shedeur's brother Shilo, is also an important member of the Darkside Defense, helping to lead the secondary.

Quarterback Shedeur Sanders

Defensive coordinator, Dennis Thurman, turns the defense loose each week and it's paying dividends. The defensive backs play man to man coverage, and he is blitzing frequently, creating chaos for opposing offenses. No matter what the situation, the defense has been able to rise up to the challenge. Their next test comes this Saturday, against 2nd Delta State.

Tiger fans are expected to come out dressed in red for the game Saturday.

Social media has been clamoring for the home opener. Delta State will not be a pushover, they also come in 2nd and ranked 8th by the American Football Coaches Association poll.

The Statesmen are averaging 9 points per game but only giving up 9 points per game. JSU prevailed last time they played Delta State 3 to 7 back in 1990. In 1990 the Statesmen shocked JSU winning in Jackson 2 to 5.

2 Term Hinds County Constable, District 4

As Sheriff elect, I want to restore the confidence and commitment to all Hinds County residents especially our youth. We know the increase in crime has caused many residents and youth to second guess day to day decisions, sometimes creating life and death situations

I am committed to helping our youth by making sure with bring back Youth Activities Programs to help enrich their lives. In order to do this my priorities include:

- Taking necessary to receive grants for GED classes, Soft Computer Skills Programs, and Culinary just to name a few.

- Create partnerships with our local courts and churches to stand in while teaching Self Awareness Classes.
 - Increasing School Resource Officer visibility in every Hinds County School.

- Reinstating both crime prevention and crime solving initiatives. These programs include DARE, TRIAD, GREAT, and Victims Assistance
